Trust, respect and discipline are the fundamentals for any organization to flourish and when a few people abuse this, it unfortunately has consequences for the vast majority.

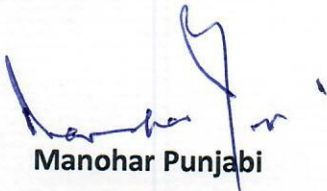

It has been observed on few occasions that some employees are questioning company policies and procedures when it's been implemented by HR department which are approved and instructed by management team for execution.

All team members are reminded and advised to adhere company policies respectfully as this is not open to further discussion.

Counting on your understanding and cooperation to HR Department.
